How is PageGate Used/Customer Quote:

"I am the Senior Telecommunications Analyst and my primary job is to manage Wellman's data network. We use HP's Network Node Manager to get a bird's eye view of our frame relay network and a few other devices.Being notified whenever there are problems with devices or links is very important to responding quickly and keeping critical applications up and running. We have integrated Pagegate into NNM for critical paging. We purchased the CLI interface as well as a couple of others just in case the need arises. We are able to minimize downtime whenever there are issues with connectivity or critical devices. We are able to keep a record as to when the problem happens and when the problem is resolved. We can make sure that our service providers are giving us what we pay for by setting up pages on different thresholds."

" We did have a competitors product doing our paging. Price and functionality were 2 of my largest concerns. I did a broad search on the phrase "NNM integration" and came upon Notepage's website. I demoed the product and found that it was very simple to use and setup, also the price was right down our alley. Thanks for making a product that is more affordable"
